Service Party Controls Three Council Offices After Spirited Election

Floyd Defeats Pope, Progressive Candidate, for Presidency

BREWER SPLITS TICKET

Critchfield Elected Vice President; Ames Is Treasurer

After polling perhaps the largest number of votes ever cast in any student election at the University, April 17 and 18, Service Club Party now controls the presidency, vice presidency, and treasurer's post in next year's Student Council, while the Progressive Party holds the secretaryship and controls the election of the Senior Council delegate.

Bourke Floyd, Service candidate, defeated Ross Pope, Progressive leader, for president of the Council 889 to 858, the closest contested office in the election.

Critchfield Elected

Ruth Critchfield won over Al Heckel for the vice president position 924 to 818, while Harry Ames defeated Everett Strandell for treasurer 937 to 791. Ruth Brewer, Progressive, polled 950 votes for secretary, while Louise Rex, Service, received 793.

Fries Is Senior Delegate

Barbara Fries was elected over Mary E. Keane for delegate to the Senior Council from Columbian College, while Harry C. Connor defeated John Shiery for delegate from the University.

Law School, Kathryn Campbell, Library Science, Roy Campbell, Government, and Virginia Pope, Education, had no opposition. Medicine and Pharmacy had no candidates.

The Senior Council will name a delegate from its group to the Student Council within the next few weeks.

Twenty Delegates Unnamed

Twenty delegates to the Council remain unnamed today. One from each school will be designated as soon as school councils are set up. Delegates to these councils will be based upon representation of each student organization affiliated with the school, or they may be elected by each school's student body. The students will determine the manner in which the school council will be organized.

Other groups entitled to delegates are: debate, dramatics, interfraternity council, men's athletics, music, Panhellenic Council, publications, women's athletics, a non-fraternity group, and a non-sorority group.

Greek Debates To Close May 7

Charles Bish, Donald Sher-
bondy Invited To Act
As Judges

The final intramural debates will take place May 7.

Mr. Charles E. Bish of Western High School and Prof. Donald Sherbondy of American University have been invited to act as judges. Mary Louise Yauch, president of Panhel, will serve as chairman for the women's debate while Morse Allen, president of the interfraternity council, will be the chairman of the men's debate.

Tomorrow night Acacia will meet Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Phi Mu will debate Alpha Delta Theta to decide who is to debate in the final contest. The winner of the sorority debate will meet Alpha Delta Pi, and the winner of the fraternity debate will meet Phi Alpha.

Drama Demands Man Mountains

By Edmund Browning
During the course of the play, the robots manufactured in Rossum's plant revolt against mankind and eliminate that genus from the earth. Since the robots feel no emotions and show no expression, the only acting ability that is necessary is to be able to look perfectly blank. That should be easy.

Students interested in taking these parts should apply to Karl Gay, graduate assistant director, any afternoon this week in the Cue and Curtain work shop in the rear of Building D.

Brusloff To Play During Glee Club Dance at Willard

Diversified Program To Include Twenty Numbers
by G. W. Singers

Leon Brusloff's 13-piece concert orchestra will play at the annual Glee Club Concert Dance at the Willard Hotel on May 14 according to Sam Detwiler, chairman of the concert committee.

The program will consist of about twenty numbers, many of which will be entirely new to the University audiences. The Men's Club will sing two groups, the women's one, and the combined clubs, three.

Men Sing Prize Numbers.
As a part of its concert, the Men's Club will be conducted by Raymond Robinson, student conductor, in the numbers with which it took second place in the Eastern Intercollegiate Glee Club contest. The rest of the concert will be conducted by Dr. Robert Harmon, director.

Dr. Harmon announced that the final number would come as a surprise and would be accompanied by Brusloff's orchestra. Tickets for the concert, which will begin at 8:45 p. m., are now for sale at $1 each by the bursar and members of the Men's or Women's Glee Clubs.

Bealke Elected Queen of Fiesta With 384 Votes

Helen Bealke, polling a total of 384, has been elected Queen of the University Fiesta in the contest sponsored by The Hatchet. Kathleen Bulow and Janet Stulz, receiving 289 and 88 votes respectively, were second and third place winners.

The Queen will be crowned in opening ceremonies of the Fiesta at 8 o'clock Thursday evening. The runners-up in the contest will act as maids of honor at the coronation.

The Queen will receive an engraved loving cup in honor of her election, and the maids of honor each will be presented with corsages. All will wear gowns from Lansburgh & Bros., especially furnished for the occasion.

Elected Editor

Chosen Sunday To Direct The Hatchet During Coming Year

Eleanor A. Heller

ELEANOR A. Heller was elected editor of The Hatchet for the coming year by the Board of Editors at a meeting Sunday evening.

The newly elected editor will actually take office on June 5, following a probationary period of four weeks in accordance with the rules of the Publications Committee. James W. Haley, retiring editor, will retain a position on the board as an associate editor.

Eleanor began her journalistic career with The Hatchet in September, 1932, as the originator of the column "Did You Know That" and reporter. Advancing rapidly, she was promoted to copy editor, news editor, and last year associate editor on the board.

She is publications editor of The Cherry Tree, president of Gamma Eta Zeta, honorary journalistic sorority; a member of Hour Glass, honorary activities sorority; and Kappa Beta Pi, legal sorority. Her social sorority is Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Creyke, Martin Elected Associate Hatchet Editors

Richard P. Creyke and Bill Martin were elected associate editors of The Hatchet Sunday evening.

Creyke started as a junior reporter in 1932, was promoted to the senior staff and soon placed in charge of the copy desk. He is editor of the "March of Events" section of The Cherry Tree and secretary-elect of Phi Delta Epsilon, honorary journalistic fraternity, a member of Gate and Key, honorary interfraternity fraternity, and Kappa Alpha social fraternity.

Martin, as member of The Hatchet sports staff from 1932-34, covered swimming, rifle, and intramurals and was advanced to the senior staff in October.

He is editor of the Law School section of The Cherry Tree, Law School representative on the Student Council, and a member of the Junior Bar Association. The newly elected associate editors must serve a probationary period of four weeks according to the rules of the Publications Committee.

Gamow Concludes Physics Lectures

Dr. George Gamow, visiting professor of nuclear physics, will give the fifth and last of his series of public lectures in Corcoran 39 at 8:10 Friday evening on "Cosmic Rays".

The titles of Dr. Gamow's other four public lectures were "The Principle of Uncertainty", "Atomic Nuclei", "Stars and Their Structure", and "Transmutation of Elements".

Rhinehart Named O. D. K. Head; Haley, Stevens Get Other Posts

Walter L. Rhinehart was recently elected president of Omicron Delta Kappa, honorary activities fraternity.

Other officers for the ensuing year are James Haley, vice president, and Leonard Stevens, secretary-treasurer.

Rhinehart announced that the Faculty-O. D. K. baseball game will be played this year on May 11. The game between the professors and the members of the activities fraternity was an annual event for several years, but was not held last spring.

New men who have qualified for membership in O. D. K. this year will be tapped as usual on class night.

New members are elected to O. D. K. after obtaining 14 points in extracurricular activities, based on the fraternity's rating scale of activities values.

"R. U. R." Tickets Now Being Sold In Drama Office

Fantastic Melodrama To Be Given May 8, 9 at Wardman Park

Tickets went on sale yesterday at the Cue and Curtain office, Building S, for the production of "R. U. R.", fantastic melodrama of the future, which is to be presented at Wardman Park Theatre Wednesday and Thursday of next week.

The office will be open from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m. daily. Al Heckel, business manager, said. Holders of Co-op books should exchange their coupons for reserved seat tickets. The special student price for individual seats is 75 cents.

Bend Candland and Leon Gerson have been chosen to complete the cast, Harold A. Weinberger, director, announces.

Cast Completed

Candland will play the role of Radium, a most ambitious robot who leads his fellows in revolt against their human makers. Gerson will take the part of Dr. Gall, head of the physiological and experimental department of Rossum's Universal Robots, the manufacturing plant.

The impressionistic sets for the play, designed by Katherine Cutler, are extremely modernistic and have attracted considerable attention from producers in New York, because they contrast so vividly the human with machine man, according to Karl Gay, graduate associate director.

Linnebach Projector Used

The Linnebach projector, a patented device for projecting scenery by projection, will be used on a larger scale than ever before in Washington, Gay said. It will be used to throw a picture of industrial buildings on a large screen, 16 feet square, which forms the entire back of two of the sets.

Jacqueline Churchill and William Pates will play the special two-piano music composed for the play by Robert Greenwell.

Peggy Moore, in charge of costumes, is working on musical creations for the play.

Trustees Approve Construction Plan

$125,000 Building To Go
Up After Registrar's
Office Is Closed

The construction of a new classroom building to be situated on G. st. between the Woodhull Building and Lisner Hall will proceed, it was voted at the meeting of the Building and Lands Committee of the Board of Trustees yesterday at noon in the Administration Building.

After the registrar's office has been torn down, the site will be ready for the construction of the new building. The contract for the construction work has been let.

The four-story building, costing $125,000, will accommodate offices for the deans of Columbian and Junior Colleges, the registrar, the Student Council, many large classrooms, a biological science library and reading room, zoological offices and laboratories, and research and teaching laboratories for the botany and biology departments.

At the same meeting the Building and Lands Committee voted to proceed with plans for the Strong residence Hall for women. Mr. Alexander Trowbridge has been chosen as the architect and Mr. Falkner will assist him in making plans for the dormitory.

The dormitory, which will accommodate 200 women, has been made possible by a gift to the University made by Mrs. Henry A. Strong, member of the Board of Trustees. Original plans called for the completion of the building before the opening of school next fall.

Gate of 17,000 Expected as 1935 Fiesta Prepares for Gala Opening Thursday of 30 Attractions, Shows

Ferris Wheel, Prize Booth
Conducted by Staff; 23

Competition for Best
Decorated Booth

By Margaret Davis

Fiesta revues, follies, boxing, marionette shows, and dancing will be augmented by 23 concession booths for this year's Fiesta Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of this week.

Two of the attractions, the Ferris wheel, and free prize booth will be conducted by the Fiesta staff, but all others have been turned over to fraternal organizations.

Costumes 75 Per Cent

Costumes will count 75 per cent and the manner in which the booths are decorated will count 25 per cent in the contest for the best-dressed stand in the Fiesta, the prize for which will be announced and presented Saturday.

Judging of the booths will take place on each of three nights of the Fiesta, according to Everett Strandell, associate director in charge of concessions, and will be done by an unknown group of judges.

Concessions Listed

The picture game, new to the Fiesta this year, features dyed mice having prominent moustaches. It will be sponsored by Sigma Kappa. Another new game will be the string game which Sigma Phi Epsilon operates. All players receive prizes, the prize depending on the string pulled.

Greek Billiards

In keeping with the Greek sponsors, a game of Greek billiards will be featured by Sigma Alpha Epsilon. Those who can spell out a fraternal abbreviation by rolling billiard balls to lettered holes will win prizes.

Kappa Alpha, winner of best money cup at the two previous Fiestas, will again sponsor the milk bottle stand.

The Hoopla stand, which involves the skill of throwing hoops over boxes containing prizes, will be conducted by the Theta Upsilon Omega. Good shots or good aimers will probably try penny pitching into a saucer floating in a tub of water and popcorn shooting at cigarettes. Phi Delta and Phi Sigma Sigma are the respective sponsors. ## Gamow, Seeger Speak on Forum

Physicists Will Discuss
"Physical Alchemy" on Radio Thursday

Dr. George Gamow and Prof. Raymond J. Seeger will discuss "Physical Alchemy" on the Radio Forum Thursday night at 8:15.

Prof. John Donaldson, professor of Political Economy, spoke last week on the subject of "Economic Planning: National and International".

Professor Donaldson in his speech stressed the need for economic planning in our system. "The term 'planning' is still a controversial one and will probably remain so for some time," he went on to say. "But this is all the more reason why it is worthwhile."

Professor Donaldson gave seven points which he thought the movement and idea of planning should possess. In discussing whether planning necessitates a dictatorship, Professor Donaldson pointed out that "there is no reason why planning cannot be cooperative, in involving the development of a system wherein economic and representative political groups and functions are blended together in a common cause."

In conclusion he pointed out that national planning leads to international planning and good will.

Six Seniors Announce Entrance in Competition

Six seniors have signified their intention of competing in the Davis Prize Contest.

They are Charlotte Dublin, Gretchen Felker, James Edwards, Walter Rhinehart, Richard Budecke, and Helen Wilkie. Others among the senior class will also participate.

All written manuscripts must be in the Public Speaking office Friday, May 3. The contest takes place May 8.

Pi Lambda Theta, national honorary education fraternity for women, will install Alpha Theta chapter at the University Saturday, May 4.

Miss Bea Goodkootz, assistant commissioner of education and national president of Pi Lambda Theta, assisted by Dr. Elmer J. Barnes, national treasurer, will conduct the installation.

Installation ceremonies will be held at Hotel Washington at 5 p. m. followed by a banquet at 7:30 when President Marvin will greet the new fraternity on behalf of the University.

Ruediger To Give Charge
Dean William C. Ruediger of the School of Education will give the charge setting forth the fraternity's mission to the University. Mildred Green, president of the new chapter, will preside at the banquet.

The chapter, during its two probationary years under the guidance of Pi Lambda Theta, was known as Lambda Sigma. It is the first education fraternity in the University. ## Final Fiesta Broadcast To Go on Air Today

The Fiesta's final broadcast will be presented today over station WRC at 3:45, featuring the Women's Glee Club.

Two previous Fiesta broadcasts of all George Washington talent were presented over station WOL on April 20 and 27.

George Subjected to Annual Bath

With a bucket of water, a supply of cloths, a ladder, and a smile, a colored member of the janitor force calmly treated the copy of the Houdini statue of George Washington to its annual bath.

George's rather substantial stances and generally fixed position in the University Yard made it impossible to introduce him to the convenience of modern plumbing, and he was forced to submit to a public washing, in broad daylight, and modestly clothed in military uniform and cloak.

The colored janitor failed to show any signs of honor and re-

INNOVATIONS LISTED

23 Booths, Marionettes,
Follies, Dancing, Re-
vues Offered

By Howard Ennes

Preparations for the reception of an estimated crowd of 17,000 pleasure-seekers at the third annual University Fiesta were being completed today for the opening Thursday of the gala Spanish-toned Colonial Carnival.

"I feel sure," Sam Futrovsky, director of the Fiesta, stated last night, "that the 1935 Fiesta, due to the hard work of some 200 staff members, and the whole-hearted cooperation of the entire student body, the faculty, and the administration, will prove the great success it was planned to be."

30 Attractions Offered

More than 30 attractions will be offered patrons to the Fiesta during its three day stand Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. On the lot of the Fiesta will be 23 concession booths sponsored by the various social fraternities and sororities of the campus and other organizations.

In addition to concessions, the Fiesta lot will contain a merry-go-round, an innovation to University carnivals; a ferris-wheel; the Spanish Gardens, an open air restaurant; and a gaily colored Spanish residence built to the rear of the International House.

Across 21st st. from the Fiesta grounds, in the tennis court, will be located the Fiesta boxing and wrestling ring. Starting to the side of the tennis court will be the avenue of flags and lights which will run entirely across the campus to the dancing and revue buildings.

Theater Constructed

In the University Gymnasium, to be called the "Theatre of Tomorrow" during the Fiesta, will be held the eight revue shows and one Follies performance. While the grounds of the Fiesta itself will be decorated entirely in the Spanish theme, the Theatre of Tomorrow will be ultra-modern in style with elaborate lighting effects.

Dancing, conducted to the music of seven well-known orchestras, will be held in Stockton Hall, to be known as the Crystal Ballroom during the Fiesta period. Unique lighting effects centering around a large crystal ball will be a feature of this section of the Fiesta.

Other officers elected were William Cheatham, vice president, Richard P. Creyke, secretary, and Austin Cunningham, treasurer.

Election of new members was held and they will be notified during the week.

Plans were made for an initiation and smoker to be held the first week in June at which congressmen and several prominent journalists will speak.

"Brotherhood" Is Doyle Topic at Chapel Friday

Dean Henry G. Doyle will speak at Chapel Service next Friday at noon in Corcoran 10. His subject will be "Brotherhood".

A special program is being arranged for May 17, the last Chapel service of the semester. The four religious clubs have charge of arrangements.

George Subjected to Annual Bath

By James F. Kinsella
As he proceeded with his window washing stroke to rid the "Father of Our Country" of the dusts of democracy. As he coldly doused wet rage on the same stern face that braved the winter at Valley Forge, crossed the Delaware with the Continental Army, and inspired the country through the trying years of establishing the republic, the workman's hat remained on his head, his collar remained open, and his sleeves remained rolled up. Cleaning the statue of George Washington was just another dirty job in the day's work to a member of the janitor force.

Exitus Acta Probat

Some Progress

ADOPTION of the new Student Council constitution, regardless of the imperfections of the instrument, is a distinct step forward.

The new constitution brings the Council nearer its true field—that of an activities coordinating board rather than a general student governing body.

While The Hatchet takes pleasure in commending the outgoing Council for its action, we nevertheless feel that not enough was done toward making the so-called student council a truly activities coordinating body. While such wholesale changing was being done the whole purpose should have been accomplished.

The Hatchet contends, along with thinking members of the Council, that the whole idea of a student governing body is erroneous and that this fact should be admitted and dealt with accordingly.

In the past the Council has had little or no power to govern; it has therefore accomplished nothing as a governing body. On the other hand, we would certainly be opposed to giving the Council governing powers, due to the questionable qualifications and ability of most of those who make their way into the body.

The truth of the matter is that the true field of the group's endeavor lies in coordinating campus activities which need the assistance of such a body. The Hatchet recommends just such a group, organized for just such a purpose.

Instead of the 22-member group called for by the new constitution, there should be a group of six or seven qualified students working with or under the official coordinator.

There should be no elections at large. Under the new constitution the number so elected has been reduced to four, a marked improvement over former years, but the practice should be done away with entirely.

There is some merit in the proposed organization of the various school councils, but we see little reason for each such school council's sending a representative to the Student Council.

There is no reason, apparent to us, for having men's athletics, women's athletics, or possibly even publications, represented on the Council. These activities are well taken care of in the official scheme of the University; those who have charge of the actual running of these activities do not care whether or not they have representatives on the Council.

What we would like to see, and what we believe will eventually come about, is an Activities Coordinating Board composed of the official Coordinator and (based on present conditions) representatives from debate, dramatics, the Fiesta, Interfraternity Council, music, Panhellenic Council and possibly the food drive.

Each representative on such a board would naturally be an able person. Cooperative assistance would naturally result. Such a group could and would develop and promote worthwhile projects such as the "coop book" plan and the rationalized social calendar. Each member would have an individual and a group interest in the organization.

Looking Ahead

THE HATCHET has been informed that steps have been taken to bring one of the leading football teams from the Middle West here in 1936 as the feature grid attraction. Negotiations are in the first stage and the plans may never progress any farther, for scheduling major football games sometimes requires months of work, and often the results are never known outside the athletic director's office.

However, the phase of the situation that interests us is that steps are being taken. Apparently the schedule for 1936 is being tackled now, when it should be, and not postponed until late next fall.

If the present plans fall, then we should move on to the next possibility at once. Satisfaction gained from having attempted to schedule a good game and failed is only of momentary value, if any. Should these negotiations be completed, there are other vacancies on the list that should be considered at once.

Richmond announced two of its games for next year several weeks ago, indicating that Thistlewaite is wide awake and in the market for games. A relationship between G. W. and Richmond has been mentioned a number of times and The Hatchet feels that it is most desirable to establish it. An inter-city rivalry in basketball and baseball, as well as football, might grow by leaps and bounds once started. The nearness of Richmond would cut expenses to a minimum, another factor worth considering.

Procrastination in schedule-making may lead to embarrassment and is fatal to establishing relationships with teams who have finished their schedules when we start to work on ours.

-FLYING CHIPS-

They Don't Mean What They Say; If You Lost, Protest

By Jimmie Haley

AMUSING indeed was the "wave of illiteracy" which seemed to pervade campus politics during the recent Student Council elections. It was coincidentally funny that the two warring factions should make the same mistake in the use of the President's American English. Those who have observed the oversights have had a good laugh out of them, so we pass the notice on to you, since that is about all you may hope to expect from the recent elections—a good laugh.

I refer respectively to the plank in the Service Club party's platform calling for a "bi-weekly" Hatchet and to the provision in the new Constitution (Art. V, Sec. 5) calling for "regular bi-monthly meetings".

At first blush a thinking student, knowing present conditions, would certainly believe that what was actually meant, respectively, was a semi-weekly Hatchet and bi-weekly Council meetings.

However, I do recognize and appreciate that there is a chance, in each instance, that the party meant what it said. There are some Hatchet staff members and perhaps some Hatchet subscribers who would be quite pleased if the paper came out once in two weeks instead of once in one week.

Also there are Student Council members, ex-Student Council members (including the writer), and many students who think that meetings of that august body every two months would certainly be frequently enough.

Bourke Floyd, Council president-elect, Service Club Party candidate who took the measure of politically minded Ross Pope in the annual "kidnap" election has two explanations for the misnomer committed by his party.

His explanations are (1) the mistake was a typographical error and (2) the mistake was just an oversight chargeable to the great haste with which the platform was thrown together.

As for explanation number (1), speaking as an ex-stenographer and ex-printer, I consider the allegation an affront to the intelligence of those engaged in both callings. Typographical errors just aren't like that.

As for explanation number (2)—"That the mistake was due to the haste with which the platform was composed"—this would seem not only to justify the error but would furthermore cast reflection upon the other items of the platform. No doubt they too were thrown together with great speed and with little forethought.

HERE'S a tip to defeated candidates in the elections. You should immediately file a protest, contesting the election on grounds of unconstitutionality.

The newly adopted Constitution (Art. VII, Sec. 1 (a)) provides for elections the "last school week in April". Now according to my humble interpretation the election was not so held; at least by any legal reasoning, certainly the first day of voting was without the all-protecting arms of the Constitution. If you recall, elections took place on Wednesday and Thursday, April 17 and 18.

Examination of any reliable 1935 calendar and the University Catalogue discloses that there are two calendar weeks with April school days in them following elections—this week and last week.

Even if you want to use the most favorable approach and say that by "last school week" is meant "within the last six school days of the month", the first day's voting was unconstitutional since there were, by actual count, six school days in April after the first day of balloting.

Oppenheim Discusses Background of NRA

Unfair Competition and the Anti-trust Laws

By S. Chesterfield Oppenheim

(Editor's Note: This is the first installment of a talk given by Professor Oppenheim on the University's Radio Forum, printed because of wide interest in the subject.)

THE NRA represents the latest stage in the effort to regulate competition. We shall not attempt to deal with its shortcomings, or appraise the results achieved under it, or distinguish between the underlying ideals of the NRA and the realities of its existence. Nor shall we attempt to answer the question of what to do with it. What we wish to record is that from an historical point of view, the NRA Codes of Fair Competition are a part of the continuing process of seeking correctives for destructive trade practices, thereby attempting to elevate competition to a higher level.

The law has been concerned not only with the enforcement of fair competition but also with the maintenance of competitive conditions against the encroachment of monopoly. This policy had its origin in the common law governing restraints of trade and conspiracies to monopolize. Originally, the courts confined the phrase of "restraint of trade" to situations where, for example, A sold his business to B and agreed not to compete with B in a given area and for a given time. While the courts at first were hostile to such contracts, during the 18th and 19th centuries, they were gradually permitted in England and then generally in the United States, provided they were reasonable when looked at from the standpoint of the parties to the contract as well as the public interest. But by the middle of the nineteenth century the term "restraint of trade" began to be applied to combinations or agreements among competitors for the purpose of securing control of the market and suppressing competition. These combinations or agreements assumed various forms such as to fix prices, restrict output, divide territory and profits.

IN the United States the courts under the common law have generally held such arrangements illegal, regardless of the economic or social justifications which might have been claimed for them.

But just as in the case of unfair competition, so in the field of monopoly the common law was supplemented by legislation. In this country the so-called trust movement of the 1870's and 1880's produced various schemes for concentration of control and monopolizing the market. The popular outburst against the trusts and their predatory practices led to the enactment of the Sherman Anti-trust Act of 1890. That act declared illegal every contract, combination or conspiracy in restraint of interstate trade or commerce.

Under the law one of the most interesting developments has been the shift from the narrow interpretation by the courts whereby every contract or combination in restraint of trade was considered unlawful to the famous "rule of reason" of the Standard Oil case of 1911 by which only contracts or combinations which unreasonably restrain trade are held in violation of law. It is apparent that the flexibility of such a standard of judgment as "reasonableness" inevitably leads to uncertainty and this is exactly what occurred under the Sherman Act. But with the exception of one or two cases, the Supreme Court and the lower courts have refused to apply this "rule of reason" to combinations or agreements among competitors which are designed to monopolize the market. In one case the Supreme Court of the United States refused to uphold a price-fixing agreement, regardless of the question of its reasonableness. The Court said that "the reasonable prices fixed today may through economic and business changes become the unreasonable price of tomorrow."

A QUARTER of a century of experience under the Sherman Act demonstrated the inadequacy of that law to cope with new monopolistic

Deserters Deserve Nothing

Let's Keep Tab on the Service Club Party and See if it Carries Out its Platform; Anything To Be a Queen

By Verna Volz

INDIVIDUALS, with a capital I, are great things for a university. Nobody denies the value of personalities known beyond campus and having a following in their own right. But when individuality becomes temperament and temperament becomes refusal to cooperate, strong personality ceases to have a service to the group.

We have seen this last week more than one case in important campus projects of responsibility publicly accepted and then at the last minute denied. Much as we admire those whose talents and achievements win for them a name, that admiration ceases with jolting abruptness when possessors of such names permit them to be used in widespread advance publicity, and then decline at the last minute to produce that which is not only expected but promised.

Such actions put figures who have gained real respect back in the class of those who grab office and position for the names' sake. And in that breed there are few less admirable.

THREE of the key officers of the newly elected Student Council went into office under the banner of the Service Club party. Planks of their platform included a much cheaper Cherry tree, a bi-weekly Hatchet, a building for men, a university non-profit cafeteria, a University Theatre to combine Cue and Curtain and Troubadours, and the 4-4-4 Plan for a committee of four professors, four undergraduates, and four alumni, to replace the existing Student Life Committee.

Whether or not you agree with the desirability or the practicality of the projects, you cannot help but admire the action that they presage.

I suggest that we each preserve a copy of the printed plans of the group, and check off the action devices. Consequently, in 1914 supplementary legislation, namely, the Federal Trade Commission Act, to which we have previously referred, and the Clayton Act were passed. The Clayton Act gave the Federal Trade Commission authority to prevent interlocking directorates of corporations (and to prohibit practices such as unlawful price discriminations, so-called "tying contracts" and stock acquisitions where the effect may be substantially to lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly).

Despite all this legislation business mergers, which the antitrust laws were specifically aimed to have prevented, flourished under liberal decision of the United States Supreme Court. This was true before the relaxation of the antitrust laws under the New Deal. Witness the stamp of legality placed in 1920 by the Supreme Court upon the United States Steel Corporation, then controlling more than fifty percent of the industry and in 1927 upon the International Harvester Company, controlling at that time about 64 percent of the domestic production.

These cases were decided on the theory that not mere bigness but abuse of power is an offense under the anti-trust laws. There is ground for the contention that this liberal tendency reflects a lack of adequate enforcement. This should serve as a reminder that unenforced laws merely become embalmers in statute books. Effective enforcement of the anti-trust laws, however, rests upon more than the vigilance of the administration in power and the attitude of the courts. In the final analysis, it quires the support of an informed public opinion. But the public must be tolerant of reasonable experimentation in a field where there are so many disputed questions of fact and rapidly changing forms of industrial organization. In the words of Mr. Justice Brandeis, "If we would guide in the light of reason, we must let our minds be bold."

As a matter of fact, the book is only about one quarter Battle, and very bearable Battle at that. It shows a smooth, comprehensive panorama of Germany's part in the European conflict, and one who was brought up, as I was, on the evil motives of the Kaiser, will find in these pages an accurate and really conscientious record of the events leading Germany up to the crisis of 1914.

It is hard for an age to judge itself, even 20 years is a short time. We need about 100 years for real perspective; but Ludwig has done his job efficiently. His pre-war and wartime story—told through the life of Germany's late president—is remarkably unprejudiced.

Though the human story is not without appeal and old Hindenburg seems to have been a fine but misguided person, I do feel that I haven't been very close to him. Ludwig's biographies are, after all, pretty generally historical, with little of the intimacy found in some of the lesser lights.

ALL week I have been congratulating myself, thinking how clever it was of me to select Emil Ludwig's "Hindenburg" (Winston Co. $3.50) for my weekly ironing-over. Very apropos, I thought, of that World War examination Dr. Raratz so skillfully dealt out. But all that auto-back-patting was before I spent a frantic week-end preparing the assignment, and now I do begin to question the appeal of anything remotely related to the Great War.

Pretzel New At Glen Echo

More Than 50 Attractions Ready After Gay Opening

Boasting some 50 attractions, Glen Echo, Washington's foremost amusement park, opened last Saturday at 1 p. m. for the 1935 season.

Prominent among new amusement features is a surprise called The Pretzel. Erected during the winter at a very substantial sum, the Pretzel is the last word in thrills. Briefly, it is a sensational ride in a self-propelled electric car that traverses a steel-bonded track in the darkness and twists and turns every which way like a Pretzel.

Phil O'Brien, who gave up the profession of law to devote his exclusive time and talents to music, will again direct McWilliams' 12-piece orchestra in the Spanish Garden Ballroom. Dancing this year will start at 9 o'clock instead of 8:30 as in previous years. Popular prizes will prevail for dancing.

Crystal Pool, one of the major attractions at Glen Echo, will open May 25. Several important swim meets are planned for the summer months, with many novelties promised by the management.

Honor Group Initiates Two

Josephine Allen and Charlotte Bowman were initiated Thursday night by Alpha Lambda Delta, honorary scholastic fraternity for freshmen women, at a joint ceremony with the University of Maryland chapter at College Park.

Mrs. Winnie G. Barrows, director of women's personnel guidance, and Dean Adele Stamp of the University of Maryland, were guests of honor at a banquet afterwards.

Just A Line To Annabelle

Phi Sig Beer Party, Delt "Tacky" Ball, and Kappa Sig "Jungle" Dance Flavors Post-Easter Affairs; Center Party Plans Jaunt

Dear Annabelle:
It's been a long time since I've been able to write to you but I know that Sandy has been very interesting. He is still Easter-vacationing. We seem to take turns going away, don't we?

While I'm on the subject of going away, Gussie Mae Hanley and Jane Caskey spent the weekend at Washington and Lee.

Friday night, Alpha Delta Theta gave a script dance at the Hay-Adams House and Alpha Kappa Psi entertained at an informal dance at the Sigma Chi house. The same evening Phi Sig gave a beer party at their house.

Phi Phi held their annual founders' day luncheon at Wesley Hall Saturday afternoon. That evening, S. A. E. gave their Spring Formal with Frank Stevenson's orchestra surpassing itself.

I understand the Delt tacky party certainly lived up to its theme Saturday night. I've been told that they broke up chairs, hung them on chandeliers, and tore the wall-paper just to make the party "tacky".

Reports are going around that Kenn Romney stole the show at the Kappa Sig Jungle Party Saturday night. They say his costume once belonged to a ferocious leopard.

Sunday both Alpha Delta Theta and Phi Phi held open house. The

Engagements, Nuptials Increases As Academic Finals Approach

With June, the bridal month, rapidly approaching, many engagements and marriages of graduates and students are being announced.

Foremost in interest to the University is perhaps the marriage of Mary Elizabeth Hudson, daughter of Mrs. S. J. Hudson and the late Mr. Hudson of Washington, to Mr. E. Ralph Rowzee, of Akron, Ohio. The ceremony was held Saturday in all Souls Episcopal Church.

Mrs. Rowzee attended Central High School and George Washington where she was a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority. She has been secretary to the dean of the Medical School for three years. Mr. Rowzee attended Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Boston after graduating from Central High School.

Christine Spiguel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Spiguel of Chevy Chase, became the bride of Mr. David Russell Coombes of Chevy Chase last Saturday evening in All Saints Episcopal Church. Both Mr. and Mrs. Coombes graduated from George Washington, where the latter was a member of Chi Omega fraternity.

Mrs. William Francis Ward announced the marriage of her daughter, Louise Markey Ward, to Mr. Nagel Haskin, son of Frederick J. Haskin last week. The marriage was performed in St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Both the bride and the groom are graduates of Central High School and George Washington.

Miss Doris Troth, daughter of Mr. J. Ezra Troth of Chevy Chase, will become the bride of Mr. Harold Jenkins of Washington and Pittsburgh Saturday in the Chevy Chase Methodist Episcopal Church. Miss Troth was a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority.

Pi Beta Phi announces the engagement of Suzanne Johnson, daughter of Mrs. Ritchie, wife of Capt. L. P. Ritchie, of Biloxi, Miss., to Raymond Minor Hudson Jr. of this city. The marriage will take place on June 15. Mr. Hudson is a member of Kappa Alpha.

Sigma Kappa announces the engagement of Marjorie Herrie Keim to Mr. Albert Edward Alexander of Chevy Chase. Miss Keim is a graduate of George Washington and Mr. Alexander graduated from Catholic University. The marriage will take place in June.

Another member of Sigma Kappa will also be married in June. Helen Hughes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hughes, will marry Mr. John Frederick Royce who now makes his home in Louisville, Ky. Miss Hughes is a graduate of both George Washington and Wilson Teachers College. Mr. Royce attended the University of Louisville and G. W. where he was a member of Sigma Chi fraternity.

Women Riflers Win 7 Matches To End Season

G. W. Team Third in the National Intercollegiate Championship Match

With seven intercollegiate victories and one defeat, the women's rifle team ended a successful season before the Easter holidays with the defeat of the alumnae team. Out of the nine matches of the season, returns have been received from all except that with the University of California on March 30.

In the first match, held December 15, the women defeated the University of Pennsylvania with a score of 494 to 462. On January 12, the University of Indiana was defeated with a score of 486 to 467. In February the team was again victorious, this time in a match with the University of Michigan. The total score was 491 to 480.

In the only shoulder-to-shoulder match of the season, George Washington triumphed over Drexel Institute, 493 to 491. On the same day a telegraphic match was shot with Northwestern University. The latter defaulted.

On March 22 two matches were fired. G. W. received its first and only defeat at the hands of the University of Missouri when the mid-westerners recorded a perfect score of 600. G. W. trailed by 3 points. On the same day Carnegie Tech was met in a telegraphic match, but defaulted.

Twin matches were fired again on the thirtieth. Maryland University defaulted to G. W. and the results from the University of California match have not been received.

The team won added distinction in rifle circles by placing third in the national intercollegiate championship match. In the class rifle matches the freshmen were victorious. Dahlia Lewis won the individual squad match gold medal and Mary Spelman, member of the varsity, received third place in the national intercollegiate individual championship match.

Annual Engineers Banquet Honors Freeman, Rixse

Dean Lanham Awards Fraternity Prizes for Scholarship and Activity

John H. Rixse, Jr. and Andrew F. Freeman received awards for scholarship and activities respectively, last Saturday evening at the annual engineer's banquet at the Mayflower Hotel. Dean John R. Lanham presented the awards.

Sigma Tau awarded Rixse its medal for the engineer attaining the highest scholarship record in the freshman class. His average last year was 84.0.

Freeman was presented with Theta Tau's activities award, which is presented each year to an engineering senior. Members of the faculty select the senior to whom the award is made. In determining the award, activities in the engineering school are given primary consideration, other university activities secondary.

Freeman Honored

Freeman's activities include presidency of Sigma Tau fraternity, member of Alpha Chi Sigma, chemical fraternity, publicity director of the Engineers Council in 1934, social chairman of the Engineers Council in 1935, Senior Council representative from the Engineering School, Glee Club, and presidency of Acadia fraternity.

Terry J. McAdams, president of the Engineers Council, on behalf of Dean Howard L. Hodgkins presented Dean Lanham a portrait to be placed in the Engineering School office. Dean Hodgkins was first dean of engineering when the school was known as the Corcoran Scientific School.

McClellan Gives History

A resume of the development of the engineering profession was given by Dr. William McClellan, guest speaker. Engineers, in the middle of the nineteenth century were known as practical scientists, he said at one time they were divided into two classes: Civilian and military engineers, both doing the work now done by civil engineers. With the development of science and invention, the field of engineering was divided into numerous groups, each of which is considered a separate profession.

After attending Columbian University, Dr. Mann for three years studied at the University of Berlin and received his Doctorate in physics there in 1896. Returning to America, he became research assistant to Albert A. Michelson at the University of Chicago.

More than 200 wild flowers and plants will be on display in the Biology Department's third annual wild flower exhibit in the biology laboratory in the basement of Building M Friday and Saturday, according to Dr. Paul W. Bowman, executive officer of the Department.

Flowers and plants for the exhibit are being gathered by Dr. Bowman's classes in biology and botany on their field trips in the vicinity of Washington.

Among the plants on display will be some two dozen varieties of ferns ranging from the royal and cinnamon ferns which attain a height of two or three feet, to the diminutive spleenwort, which grows only about six inches at the most. Visitors will also see some two dozen kinds of violets in addition to the common blue ones. Visitors are requested to enter the building from the University yard.

UNDER A STRAIN? ... GET A LIFT WITH A CAMEL!

FREDERICK HEATH—MEDICAL. Heath says: "I'm in first year of medical school now, with the idea of specializing in neuro-surgery. Anatomy 'lab' takes three afternoons a week. Tuesdays and Thursdays—embryology. I spend three mornings a week on bio-chemistry, three on physiology 'lab' and lectures. And I have to face an exam in about one subject per week. I relieve the strain by smoking Camels. I prefer Camels, because when I'm feeling tired or distracted they unlock my supply of energy—soon refresh me. Camels are extremely mild. Not just mild-tasting, but really mild. They never tire my taste or get on my nerves. Camels taste so good 'I'd walk a mile for a Camel!'"

By John Busick

IN a discussion of columnists there are any number of writers who rate particularly well in their own town or section but for one reason or another never make the grade nationally.

I've thought for over a year, with a little help from the gossip, that Bob Considine, of The Herald, easily the best of the local columnists and one of the leaders who hasn't reached national recognition, was being roomed by the Hearst organization to fill the gap soon to be caused by Damon Runyon's complete retirement from the sports pages.

The great Runyon still writes his column and covers the big events but the feeling has gotten around pretty far that his short story work and other interests come first and that his reporting days will be confined to things like the Hauptmann trial. There is no doubt that the master of all boxing and racing writers has let his column suffer and that now it is not nearly as widely read as it once was.

Of course there are numerous other men in the Hearst organization who might be called on to step into the shoes of Damon, but I always liked to believe the yarn the boys were telling about Considine being the guy who would get the big chance.

A couple of years ago Bob began to flirt with the style on The Post that put him where he is today. Everybody said he was crazy until he struck his stride and started to turn out stuff from Bilocit when the Nats were rained out that hit a new high for interestingness.

Rainy day stories were a dub for most of the boys but they gave Bob his chance to cut loose and show them up.

Today he gets down on the line for a little friendly chat like no other writer in the business. Only a fair reporter and rightly accused of not knowing the fundamentals of most sports, he's a wonderful story teller and he plays with the language in an interesting fashion. Like all who seek to be different, he strains for effect too much.

His stories of the Tilden-Vines tennis troupe engagement at the C. U. gym last winter covered the others like a tent. His story of the championship pro football game between the Giants and the Bears was a masterpiece. Using Runyon's present tense style, he copied the mighty Damon most acceptably. In that story he was more like Runyon than Runyon is himself.

Bob has two weaknesses which may hinder his progress unless overcome. He doesn't know thoroughly the technical side of some sports, particularly football, and often he sidetracks the important facts to make interesting writing.

It would be hard to say that any other sports writer in the land is more widely known than Grantland Rice. His name is the first mentioned when there is talk of the writing fraternity. Many have compared him and Runyon, some favoring one, some the other. It's hard to believe that anybody knows

Engineers Capture Intramural Lead

Defeat Pharmacy 8 To 6; Junior College Wins 14 To 7 Over Pre-Meds

With a record of three victories and no defeats, the Engineers now top the intramural series. Junior College is second with one victory in as many starts. The Engineers defeated the Pharmacy twice, 8-6, another by default. Junior College crushed Pre-Meds 14-7, and Columbian defaulted to the Pre-Meds.

The Engineers pounded out nine hits to nose out the Pharmacists who made six runs out of the three hits they got off John Sheiry. Sheiry and Noble lead the attack with two hits each.

Junior College feasted on the offerings of Goldfaden and Levine, Pre-Med twirlers, for 15 safe blows. Liddicoat had trouble finding the plate but Yurewitz, who relieved him, held the Pre-Meds in check.

Fiesta To Present Boxing, Wrestling

Officials Include Rep. Randolph, Matt Twomey, And Goldie Ahern

What the Fiesta athletic program lacks in finesse, it will make up in color. An army of officials, headed by Rep. Jennings Randolph of West Virginia, and numbering prominent figures in sporting circles among its members, will sit in judgment on the three scheduled fight cards.

Matt Twomey, coach of the championship Olympic Club boxing team, Goldie Ahern, District fight promoter, and Eddie La Fond, coach of the Catholic University boxing team, will be the referees.

The major bouts carded include a three-stanza affair featuring Woody Saugstad, D. C. A. A. U. bantamweight champion, and Bud Herron. Another three-rounder will bring together Ed Bieber, D. C. bike champion and former amateur light heavyweight champion, and Joey Kaufman, frosh football star. Chief McKibbin will meet Peter Briscial in what promises to be a blistering battle to the finish.

On the wrestling card, the Masked Marvel will meet all comers, and the highly anticipated grudge battle between Ben Goldfaden and Mouse Schonfeld should scorch the canvas.

Ed Watts, varsity tackle, was forced to withdraw from the competition because of bronchial pneumonia, contracted while training for the bouts.

Rifle Team Stages Spring Practice

The rifle team has picked up where the football team left off. It is staging spring practice. Although not an extensive drill, the targetmen report at their spare time and fire unmercifully at the bullseye. Frank J. Parsons, Jr., coach of the team, favors the idea very much and thinks it will make for a better team next year.

The match with Washington and Jefferson's tennis team scheduled for May 17 has been cancelled. Temple University will end the Colonial's net season May 15.

A Bit of Trivia Which Shows That Roland Logan May Soon Be Looney

By John Busick
Roland Logan, now trainer of the Boston Red Sox, paused briefly as we strolled through the lobby at Wardman Park to say that the "Sox will be in there fighting to the last ditch for the pennant if we get the pitching."

"Well, well," I replied, "how strange of you to say that!" He laughed. "I might be foolish enough to say that we will win the pennant, but I won't," he reflected. "If we get the pitching..."

LOGAN
"Of course, of course. If Washington could get the pitching Harris might cop the bunting. Are the Sox gonna get the pitching??? If so, from whom???"
"Ferrell, Grove, Welch, Ostermueller, Johnson, and Piggas. Ferrell's in the best condition of his life, Grove is doing nice..."
"Grove may be doing all right in Boston but Washington's slumping. Swatters sure hit him hard today. He was lucky to get away with some mediocre work this afternoon. That 10 to 4 victory was easy compared with what the rest of the season will be like."
"Oh, well, maybe. Now if Piggas can just get his strength back and we can make Johnson..."

Colonials Meet Hopkins in Baltimore Saturday

Leatherneck Tilt Moved To May 15; Face Busy Week

Pitchers Rest for Four Games in Six Days; Batters Shifted

It's more or less the lull before the storm for the Colonial nine this week, which has only one game listed, that with Johns Hopkins in Baltimore Saturday. The game scheduled with the Marines for tomorrow has been postponed until May 15. The Leathernecks began practice just last Saturday and will not be ready for competition for another week.

Beginning with the Jay contest, the Buff team gets action aplenty for six days with Davis-Elkins scheduled Monday, Hampden-Sydney Wednesday, and Wake Forest Thursday.

With this imposing array of encounters staring him in the face, Coach Ed Morris will rest his pitching staff as much as possible. Tarver or Noonan will get the call Saturday, with Noonan favored. Tarver still needs conditioning to get in the best of shape, despite his appearance against West Virginia. Vinnie De Angelis is lined to work against Davis-Elkins in next week's opener, according to Morris, and the other two assignments will be split up between Tarver and Noonan. De Angelis should be ready for a relief role Thursday if needed.

Although his pitching has not been up to par since his remarkable performance in the Long Island fray, Vinnie has proven to be one of the best hitters on the squad and has been put in right field. When he's in the box, Melpolder holds down the garden post.

This shift has caused a change in the batting order. De Angelis bats fifth, behind Stapleton, and is followed by Berg, the pitcher, or Melpolder when Vinnie's twirling Albert, and the third baseman, Albert's shift from fifth to eighth spot in the batting order is something of an experiment. Now in the midst of a bad slump, Morris hopes "Hoggy's" return to form will give the end of the lineup some punch.

Third base remains the most uncertain post on the team. Despite generally weak hitting, the hot corner has given the coach more worries than anything else. Fenlon, Dale, and Rathjen have been tried but the job still is wide open. Apparently each has a different weakness that classes them all equally and the position changes hands daily.

Scrivner Sent To Harrisburg Nine

Archie Scrivner, ace of the Colonial mound staff last season, has been sent to the Harrisburg, Pa., nine in the New York-Penn League by Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Senators.

Scrivner made quite a name for himself in spring training and early exhibition games while under the tutelage of Bucky Harris, versatile manager of the Senators. His fast ball and nice breaking curve worked well, but the former Colonial needs more seasoning and additional weight before breaking into the big time.

Diamonders Split Four Encounters; DeAngelis Shines

One Run Is Margin in Both Victories; Tarver Goes Well on Hill

The Colonial nine apparently believes in the adage that variety is the spice of life, for after participating in only four games, the G. W. team has run the gamut of baseball variety including one batting fest when it defeated West Virginia 9-8; it lost to Delaware 8-3 in a snowstorm; Washington College won because of the Morris' errors in a slovenly played tilt; and the Buff and Blue came out victorious in a pitchers' battle against Long Island, 1-0.

After being balked by the weather man for three games, the varsity defeated him by playing between the snowflakes at Newark, Delaware, on April 16. Greenwood held the locals to five hits to coast in on an 8-3 victory. Berg, of G. W., split his finger in the fifth and Walker took his place.

Berg Gets Two Safeties
Thompson, of Delaware, led the home team with three icy hits while Berg was the only G. W. man who could garner two safeties.

Vince De Angelis reached rare form when he set back Long Island the next day, 1-0, at the Ellipse. The teams probably would be playing still if De Angelis hadn't broken all precedents and driven over the only run of the game with a clean single to center. Marjua Russo, about whom the Colonial basketball team still has nightmares, allowed the Buff five hits. The New Yorkers were held to two bingles by De Angelis.

Washington College preserved its winning streak April 24, thanks to a streak of wild throws from the Colonials. With the score at five all in the last half of the ninth, Berry, of Washington, reached first on Dale's wild throw. He stole second, went to third on a passed ball, and scored when Catcher Berg knocked a coca-cola out of the hands of a spectator in left field in an attempt to nail Berry at third.

Tarver Halts West. Va.
George Washington outthit the Shoremen 11-10. De Angelis was charged with the loss.

Lanky Bill Tarver rose from a sick-bed Saturday to relieve De Angelis in the fifth against West Virginia. He allowed only two hits for the balance of the game while the Buff played flawlessly behind him. Tim Stapleton singled in the eighth to score Lefty Johnson with the winning marker.

Max Farrington Keeps Busy Somehow

One is tempted to wonder what Max Farrington is doing with his spare time these balmy, spring days. When calling at the gym to ask for news or otherwise make his life miserable, this active young executive, coach, physical ed instructor, and man-of-all-dirty-work may be engaged in any of these interesting enterprises.

He's likely to be trying to talk a business firm into hiring several of his athletes, defeating the odds of his badminton class, who incidentally have taken to the game which Max introduced like ducks to water, or arranging his numerous minor sport schedules.

As assistant coach of the baseball team, he must attend practices as often as possible, make the trips which always take up the entire day, as well as arranging the schedule, of course; as tennis coach he must attend all matches, eight during a period of six weeks, and see that the team gets in its practice leeks; he's responsible for seeing that 68 athletes are kept employed and conducts classes in physical education, as well.

What two men will fill his shoes if he decides to leave, as they've been rumored for two months?

Fantastic! Exciting!

A pair of runs scored by Cobe Swanson and Arnold Freshman in the first inning gave the Sig Alphas a lead behind which they played air-tight ball to defeat Sigma Mu Sigma. Neil Stull started on the mound but gave way to John Sheiry in the fourth inning, when the S. M. S. nine came forth with a threatening rally.

With the aid of hard-hitting, Delta Tau Delta defeated Sigma Nu in a crucial game. Holding an 8-1 lead from the start of the contest, the going was all for the

Trounce Hopkins In 'Grudge' Battle As Pierce Cracks

Captain's Streak Halted at Eleven; Lafayette Is Humbled Again

Undeatable in three starts, the Buff tennis team will be trying to keep its win streak intact when it faces V. P. I., its first Southern foe, at Columbia Country Club Monday at 1:30 p. m. Little news has drifted north of the Gobblers' strength and Captain Teddy Pierce and his boys expect to score another victory. V. P. I. has not had a strong net team in several years.

Sweet revenge came to the racketers Friday when Johns Hopkins, thorn in the side of the Colonials for three seasons, was beaten 6 to 3. Gunning for a chance at the Jays on the Columbia Club courts for two years, the Buff players went after their rivals in business-like fashion, winning four of the singles encounters and two of the doubles matches.

At that Siverd and Hartman, playing G. W. for the third time, trounced Howard and Pierce, the ranking Colonials. Pierce's consecutive victory streak was halted at 11, Hartman outstaying him though the Colonial leader was always within striking distance. Pierce suffered his first defeat at Johns Hopkins two years ago in his first intercollegiate match. Howard, after leading 5-1 in the third set, fell back to his loss playing and lost, 6-4, 2-6, 9-7. In the other singles matches Joe Dial defeated Nate Goldberg, 6-3, 8-6; Wilbur Langtry beat J. Tillman, 6-3, 6-1; Milt Musser

Fiesta Featuring 30 Attractions Opens Gay Shows Thursday for 3 Day Stand

Fiesta To Release 5000 Free Prize Tickets Tomorrow

Voices in Drawing 150 Awards Begins on Campus

Distribution of 5000 prize tickets for the drawings of 150 free prizes on the three nights of the Fiesta will begin tomorrow.

More than 1000 will be distributed to students on the campus Wednesday and the remainder will be passed out Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. Tickets will be good every night until drawn, and 50 will be picked each night.

In addition to these prizes, the physics exhibit will give away two free prizes, the Queen will be presented with a cup, the person selling the most programs will receive $2.50, the best decorated booth is to be given a surprise prize, and the best skit of the Fiesta shows will be presented with a cup.

Coupons for free prizes should be signed and deposited in the free prize booth at the Fiesta. Drawings will take place every half hour, and the names of those whose coupons are drawn will be broadcast over the grounds.

Radios, vases, busts, brooches, candy, ornamental animals, electric toasters, cigarette cases, even men's hats will be given away. The prizes have been contributed by local merchants.

Mainfort Fans—He Doesn't Dance

By Nancy MacLennan

Ignore the fact that "Carl Mainfort" is alongside "fan dancer" on the campus bulletin board. Carl can fan cards, fan his brow, and even create fans, but he does not fan dance.

In utter silence Mainfort will present his act in the Fiesta Follies. In last year's Fiesta he won first prize for the best individual act.

In Vincent Lopez's auditions of novelty acts, he again came off with a first prize. On the strength of this he was featured at the Fox Theatre last summer.

Carl wears gloves when manipulating the cards. Apropos of nothing at all we can bring in a few statistics: one pair of chamol gloves wears out every two months; one pack of super-design cards wears out every two weeks; his highness practices the act once every day.

Sport Axe

as much about the ring and the track as Runyon.

In football and golf, certainly the latter, Rice has the edge, in my opinion. In baseball they are on a par. Rice's all-American football team is the most widely accepted eleven picked by an individual. Lately the press association teams and those selected by groups of coaches have become more popular.

Paul Gallico rose from the ranks to become a syndicated commentator several years ago and day in and day out he rings the bell as often as any. Possessed with a sound knowledge of all sports and the ability to say nice things without putting sugar on his words, he has gone far. He is interesting and smart without being offensive.

His feature stories go well in Esquire and Vanity Fair and he is a frequent contributor to both. Occasionally he writes a short story for The Saturday Evening Post.

Two of the better New Yorkers are Joe Williams, of The World Telegram, and Bill Corum, of The Journal. Both have their opinions printed nationally; Williams through the Scripps-Howard papers and Corum in the afternoon Hearst papers.

Williams seems burdened by the dual duties of sports editor of The Herald Telegram and columnist. Once he wrote in a style like that employed by Gallico. Now he does not click as frequently. Corum breezes along like the smart man-about-town he is. On boxing and racing he excels but he does nicely by the rest, too. Not good as a steady diet, he is enjoyed if tried occasionally.

The scholarly, erudite John Kierman, of The New York Times, is the favorite of many high-brows who sniff at Runyon and the rest. Interviews are his long suit and there is none better at this angle of the game.

Three other men should be mentioned, specialists in feature writing, who know the business from A to Z. They are "Colonel" Henry McLenore, of The United Press, Bill Cunningham, of The Boston Post and Collier's, and Quentin Reynolds, who writes exclusively for Collier's. The latter has taken the weekly role once filled by Grantland Rice and he handles it nicely.

No piece about sports writers would be complete without mention of the two great warriors who recently passed on, W. O. McGheehan and Joe Vila. Both were on New York papers, McGheehan on The Herald-Tribune and Vila on The Sun. The former's "Down the Line" was one of the oldest sport features in the country and one of the best liked. Vila wrote chiefly on the great heroes of the past, and was a master of statistics.

Phi Sigs Leading League A Nines

Delta until the first half of the fifth inning when the Snake batters caught on to "Tuffy" Leemans. He had turned in some stellar twirling, but Sigma Nu went on a batting rampage which included a circuit clout by Osce Bentley to put them in a threatening position. In the Delt half of the fifth, Bill Parrish put the game on ice when he connected for a homer with the bases full which accounted for four of the five runs tallied in that inning.

In a game which produced bad fielding on the part of both teams, Acacia was the victor over Theta Upsilon Omega 10-7. Jake Zylman, Acacia second baseman, was outstanding in the field for his team, figuring in two double plays.

Blasting three Sig Ep pitchers from the mound, Sigma Chi defeated Sigma Phi Epsilon 8-6. Wayne Hanson and Bill Pool starred at bat for the winners, each getting a home run.

In other League A games, Kappa Alpha defeated Theta Delta Chi, 11-8, and Phi Sigma Kappa won by a forfeit from Kappa Sigma, as mentioned above.

Schedule for May 5

League A—Sigma Phi Epsilon vs. Kappa Alpha, Theta Delta Chi vs. Phi Sigma Kappa, Sigma Chi vs. Kappa Sigma.

League B—Acacia vs. Sigma Nu, Theta Upsilon Omega vs. Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Sigma Mu Sigma vs. Delta Tau Delta.

Romney, Replacing Ziman, To Produce 9 Revue Shows in Theater of Tomorrow

10 Hours of "Colonial Capers", "Rhapsody in Blue", "Sailing South"

Two-hour Follies Headline Attraction Friday at 11 p. m.

Under the direction of Kenn Romney, veteran Cue and Curtainer and radio voice of the Washington Times, the Fiesta will present 10 hours of "Broadway style" revues during the Fiesta period Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

Eight revue shows and one two-hour performance of the 1935 Fiesta Follies will be offered. Three revues will be presented Thursday, beginning at 8:30; two Friday and the Follies at 11 o'clock; and three Saturday.

Follows Withdrawal

Romney took over his new position as managing director of the Fiesta shows Sunday after the withdrawal of Edmund Ziman.

With Selby Davis as first assistant, he has finished preparation of three completely different revue performances.

Staged in the ultra-modern "Theater of Tomorrow", on lesser occasions known as the gymnasium, the productions will feature the return of Jerry Siskler, ace troubadour of years past, with Newell Lusby and Jerry Hess. Joe Danzansky is no longer starred, after declining on Sunday to participate.

Acts Listed

Besides blackout skits on current and campus topics, the show will offer the celebrated Chi Omega football chorus, a fashion show under the direction of Lansburgh & Bros., sound comedy shorts, magic, dancing, songs, and stooings.

Shows to be presented are: Thursday, "Colonial Capers"; Friday, "Rhapsody in Rhythm" and "Follies"; and Saturday, "Sailing South".

Eleanor Bochs and Alan Warfield, stars of "Take It Easy", will handle the solo songs. The dancing unit under Helen Bealke, assisted by Mary Fulgham, will include Janice Hale, Leona Moser, Betty Hartung, Margaret Baer, Jane Harrison, Jan Shuck, Ethel McKee, Florence Asher, and Betty Hewins.

Music for the nine shows will be furnished by a 10-piece orchestra under the direction of Harry Knapp. Other staff members included Floyd Sparks, Helen Wilke, and Verna Volz as special assistants to the director; Phillip Martin, lights chairman; Gussie Mae Hanley, Beulah Kesters, Kate Hopwood, and Carolyn Price, make-up.

8,271 men and women visited the Chesterfield factories during the past year...

A man who visited a Chesterfield factory recently, said: "Now that I have seen Chesterfields made, I understand better than ever why people say Chesterfields are milder and have a better taste."

If you too could visit our factories you could see the clean, airy surroundings; the employees in their spotless uniforms, and the modern cigarette making machinery.

You could notice how carefully each Chesterfield cigarette is inspected and see also how Chesterfields are practically untouched by human hands.

Whenever you happen to be in Richmond, Va., Durham, N. C., or San Francisco, California, we invite you to stop at the Liggett & Myers plants and see how Chesterfields are made.
